Have you heard the news?

1. Patience and/or Persistence? WLA members will be meeting with groups in Willow to update the community regarding plans for a new library. We have been advised to keep the project “alive” so that when public monies are available, people controlling those funds will know the groundwork has been done for a new Willow Library and upgraded Community Center, and the project will be near the top of the funding lists. A Pre-Development Plan is on file in the Library for your review. We are excited about the potential of new and improved space to better serve our community. Right now, however, we are tending the fire, so to speak, to keep the project warm without fueling the flames. Both patience and persistence seem in order.

2. Preparations for the next Library Raffle are underway, with the drawing planned for early March. Once the fun and games of Winter Carnival are over, you will be learning more about the 2017 Willow Library Raffle. This year we are raffling a large, framed print by G. Peterson. Watch for more news about tickets and for a look at this striking piece of art, generously donated by former Willow residents Janet and John Oates.

3. WACO recently granted money to Willow Library Association for programming, so plans are underway to arrange for events that will be engaging for Willow residents of various ages. Input from community members is always welcome. The best place for you to check on upcoming library workshops, activities, and performances, is online: <http://www.matsugov.us/facilities/willow-public-library>

Thanks to our Library Staff for their good work!
Thanks for your continued support. See you at the Library!
